NCSCS : Nazrul Centre for Social and Cultural Studies

Nazrul Centre for Social and Cultural Studies is an advanced research centre. It seeks to connect various local issues with global knowledge, focusing strongly on social exclusion and inclusive policies, the present condition of those who are marginalized like the minorities, dalits and adiwasis, the mindless plunder of nature and its consequences, translation and multi-culturalism, our relation with neighbouring and far-off nations, and above all, exploration of various trajectories to re-cultivate peace and social harmony through a revival of interest in traditional socio-cultural practices through a deep and critical understanding of our heritage. It plans to aspire for global standards in its local habitat so that in near future it may immensely help research and cultural activities in West Bengal as well as India.

Kazi Nazrul Islam was an institution by himself. Nazrul Centre for Social and Cultural Studies (NCSCS) aims at nurturing Nazrul's attitude towards life and world and promulgating it to the minds of the world for enabling them to discover a way to live a life without conflict and violence.

Ipsita Chanda teaches Comparative Literature at the English and Foreign Languages University, Hyderabad, and served as Indian Council of Cultural Relations Chair of Indian Culture at Georgetown University in 2013-14. She translates between English, Hindi, Urdu and Bangla. Translated authors include Mahasweta Devi, Satinath Bhaduri, Sukumar Ray and Phaniwaranath Renu. Recent publications include "Selling the City : Single Women Migrants and Their Lives in Kolkata" (Sage/ Since 2017) and two edited volumes published by Sahitya Akademi, Delhi entitled "Emotion, Expression and Aesthetics" (2018) and "The Creative Space : Literature and the Other Arts" (2019).

Lecture Title : Jaatir Gourab o Jaater Bojjati : Nazrul-sahitye Bohutaar Proshongo
From Caste to Nation : Plurality in the Works of Kazi Nazrul Islam]

Kazi Nazrul Islam transcended all forms of religious and cultural sectarianism through an ethos of syncretism and plurality. This invited lecture will address this principle of plurality and co-existence.

The program began with the felicitation of the distinguished guests present on the dais. Dr. Anuradha Rai delivered the Welcome Note where she thanked Professor Sadhan Chakraborti, the Hon'ble Vice Chancellor of Kazi Nazrul University and the authorities of Nazrul Centre for Social and Cultural Studies for supporting financially the translation project. She categorically mentioned the program as the initiation of the Nazrul Studies in a systematic manner in the Darjeeling Hills.

Dr. Kaustav Chakraborty introduced the theme and analyzed the need for studying and translating Nazrul in English and Nepali. He also justified why Nazrul as the rebel voice of Bangla literature needs to be upheld as an interlocutor with whom the Gorkha community can easily relate their rebel selves.

Dr. Swati Guha in her address discussed the vision and mission of the Nazrul Centre for Social and Cultural Studies. She expressed her delight for the fact that for the first time Nazrul's work would be translated in a language where none of his works had been translated before.

Dr. Monalisa Das in her address made a brief historiographical survey of the translation of some of the poems of Agnibina. She pointed out the limitations of such translations done with a fixity of purpose and mentioned that for the first time all the poems of Agnibina would be translated in two different languages.

Sri Manprasad Subba expressed his delight over the translation project. He discussed in greater detail the problems and prospects of translating 'poetry' from one bhasa to another bhasa. He however suggested that while translating Nazrul's poetry into Nepali from English the translator/s should keep the original Bangla poetry in their mind along with the English translation.

Professor Ipshita Chanda while commenting that it's comparatively an easy task to translate from one Indian language to another, translating a target text written in Bangla into English is rather a challenging one, more so when the target text is deeply rooted to the culture and is composed in rhythmic metre by a poet so versatile as Nazrul.

Our Chief Patron, Professor Sadhan Chakraborti, Hon'ble Vice Chancellor of Kazi Nazrul University could not come despite his keen interest due to some urgent preoccupation with the University affairs. He however sent his message wishing grand success of the translation project. His message was read out by Dr. Kaustav Chakraborty.
